President's Comments

Just a reminder that at our next meeting we will be having nominations of officers for the year 2006. Please be prepared to nominate the candidate of your choice. The November meeting will be the election of officers. I will have ballots for both meetings.

Boy has this year ever slipped away. Here it is October and almost time to put the cars away, but not so soon. We will still have some nice days to go for a drive and enjoy the fall colors.

I want to thank those who volunteered to plan the Christmas party this year.

I hope that everyone is satisfied with our new meeting place the food was very good at our last meeting. I will try to be more vocal at the meetings I believe it was very hard to hear.

There were eleven of our cars at the Crazy Horse Mustang Clubs show in Markle last month. Our club was well represented and we won twelve awards. The Old Fort Club took the club honors with sixteen cars. The Markle club had a very nice show with 102 cars present. If you ever want to go to a car show to relax this is the place to go. They also had two other clubs display there. The Ford Fairlane; Comet and Marverick Club along with a Thunderbird Club were displaying there. We saw a great selection of Mustangs and other Ford products. I would highly recommend to the members of our club to give this show a try.

I want to take this time to thank everyone in this club for their support through out this year.

We will see you at our next meeting

Sincerely

Howard Barrett

SHOW REPORT

Chairman Bob Christena reported that the weather for this year's show was the lousiest we have ever had..

Although the rain stopped around noon, it still cut into our attendance, with just 75-79 cars being displayed.

Thanks to all who displayed their cars and who helped in any way before, during, and after the show.

All agreed that having our own trailer was a good investment and helped with storing and getting the equipment out to the show site. A special thanks to Dave Yoder for using his expert cabinetry skills in building shelves and other means to help make the trailer space more useable.

Mona Steiner reported that five new members had signed up at the show and numerous applications were handed out.

Harold Jedrzegewski showed a handsome plaque that he had received for displaying his car at the Kouts Porkfest. The plaque was for club participation.

Toni Estrada announced that the Tire Rack test track will be available to club members and friends 9 a.m. until dark on both Sept. 24 and 25. Come to watch if you don't want to race your car.

NEW BUSINESS

Ted Sauerbeck made a motion that the club purchase tables to be used at our car show. Bob Christena seconded the motion it passed that we spend up to $500 to buy the tables. Vic Garrison knows of some good used tables and he will look into their purchase.

Brad Milliken offered to arrange a fall cruise for Oct. 8 or 15. Members will be E-mailed regarding the date.

MCA REPORT Regional MCA director Vic Garrison reported that MCA president Whitsell is writing an article for the magazine about funding and donations for Hurrican Katrina victims..

Youngstown Grand National Show was packed with at least 500 cars participating.

If anyone is interested in being an MCA Board Member, send biography and picture.

Instead of a Grand National Show next year, there will be a MCA 30th Anniversary celebration held in Birmingham, Alabama. Other national shows will be at Pensacola, FL, Johnson City, TN, Sturbridge, MA, Erie, PA. and Las Vegas, NV.

Curly Long is making arrangements for a golf outing on Oct. 1. Please see him if you are interested

The scholarship fund has been set up in Neal Decker's name. So far one applicant's name has been turned in.

Neal's car has not been sold. An ad will be put in the Mustang Monthly, but we will wait until Spring for better access to showing the car.

Dash plaques and catalogs and still available from our show, if you didn't receive yours.

Curly Long suggested that we have a virtual car show to save money on gas and wear and tear on our show cars.

Everyone agreed that this would be a fun thing to do.

Chris and Elizabeth Pasternak still have pedal cars to sell.

Our next meeting will be Oct. 10 at the Four Seasons Restaurant at 6 p.m for those who wish to dine together, with the meeting starting at 7 P. M.

Minutes cont....

President Howard asked for volunteers to organize the Christmas Party.

A motion was made by Curly Long, seconded by Ron Newcomer, and passed that we adjourn.

Becky Christena is selling beautiful items!

All at a first come first serve basis.

She's offering the red, white and blue Ford Mustang insignia pillows, with the insignia square on one side, and the allover print in royal blue background on the other. Approx. 16" square. This fabric is long out of print, difficult to find, and so crisp and beautiful. See Becky for pricing info on these beautiful items!

GREAT NEWS!

Restorations tools and equipment rent Free, for Mustang Club Members only. Some deposits may be required.

1. Portable sand blast equipment for body work or other.
2. Paint spray Gun.
3. Car dolly to tow car.
4. Engine/transmission stand.
5. Torque wrench.

Contact Ted Sauerbeck at 574-273-8513.

CHECK THIS OUT!

Chris and Elizabeth Pasternak are selling Mustang pedal cars.

They will be taking orders at the October meeting! The cost per pedal car is $209 for club members. That is the lowest price we are allowed to sell them for.

This month, we apologize for the late newsletter. I had a death in the family and had to be out of town a bit, and things around here have been a bit hectic. Elizabeth

Pony of the Month

“....It’s an investment”

This is the result of taking my 1998 Ford Mustang into the dealer to have the tires rotated. It was 2003 and I was buying parts to make my 98 Mustang look and sound better. There was nothing wrong with the car.... It was five years old, had just over 28,000 miles on the car, not a dent or scratch.... so why the trade? My dad is a car enthusiast. The only problem is he is into the “other car”. He told me about the Roush, but I didn’t know what it was. I actually stopped at the dealer and looked at one. I got sticker shock and left the dealer. (I later asked dad if he had an extra $45,000.00 that he wasn’t using). Every time I would look, he would tell me it was an investment. The only way I could afford a car like this was to quit living. But the more I looked, the more I researched, the more the bug bit me. So on that day in July, when dropping off my little white Mustang for service, I asked about the Roush. The next day I left my first pony behind and drove the Roush home. My first car show was the Michiana Mustang show at the mall. I have never shown a car before (only real horses) and had no idea what to expect. As Mona can recall it was quite hilarious. I placed third in participant vote and met a lot of great people. The car club has really opened up a lot of opportunities; most memorable is the meeting of Jack Roush at the 40th Celebration in Nashville, TN. I have learned a lot about showing a car and am picking up a little bit more each time I go to a show. Eventually I plan on putting a little bit more money into the car, but for now I will just enjoy the car as is. The car is still a big hit with people. (Every once in a while I will catch dad showing off the car to his friends.) And every month when I sign that check I have to keep in mind.....”It’s an investment”.

Golfing Fun!

There were six people (two threesomes) for the second annual Michiana Mustang golf outing. Ted Sauerbeck, Dave Yoder, Roger Young, Karon Long, David Long (13 year old grandson of Karon and Curly) and myself. While the turnout was low the fun had was great. The team of Roger, Karon and David were the winners with a 3 over 75. Ted, Dave and I had fun - we took a few more strokes than they did and lost several more balls. I apologize for not doing a better job of organizing this years outing. I will do a better job next year and look forward to a larger turn out. So keep the last couple of weekends open in September of 2006.

Precious Saturdays

I have found since I have gotten older, and my life has become everything but my life, that I truly treasure Saturdays. When you are a woman that has a career, husband and children, you find yourself with very little time to do all what life asks of you. Monday through Friday's are work, school activities, homework, and the few household chores that you can squeeze in between just to get by until Saturday. Saturday's become dumping day. Saturday is groceries, laundry, vacuuming, scrubbing floors, washing windows, cleaning closets, planting flowers, digging up flowers, landscaping projects, home improvement projects, appointments, and everything else you need to do to make sure that your family has what they need throughout the day. So.... with all that said, when my husband approached me about spending the day at the Tire Rack to watch him go around and around in circles with his car, well...I was a little exasperated to try and figure out how I could fit that into all that needed to be done. I truly enjoy being a part of all the Mustang Club activities. The Michiana Mustangs have the most wonderful group of people that I have ever had the privilege of being a part of in my life. I wanted to make my husband happy and show my support for what he so dearly loves, but I also knew that if I didn't stay home and do what needed to be done, it would be waiting there, like a big ugly pimple in my life, when I got home and I didn't want that either. Well, after much thought on how I was going to accomplish both, it was disgruntly decided (Pete wasn't very happy), that I would drive Kelly (my twelve year old daughter), and myself separate. By making this choice, my husband is somewhat happy and I am somewhat happy. Compromise is always good. I can now leave whenever I want, which in my mind should be in about 2 hours.

Saturday comes and of course Pete gets up very early and is as excited as a small child getting his first train set on Christmas morning, or better yet, an adult male about to go racing his pony around a race track!! Kelly and I do a little house cleaning prior to going to Tire Rack. On the way there I am thinking about the million other things I should be doing for the next couple of hours, but I am keeping up my end of the bargain. Kelly and I are scheming all the way there on how we can leave as early as possible without looking like we are bailing on Pete. Gotta keep the peace.

We are now at the track. I am very surprised at how small the crowd is. Deep down in side I am excited because I am now thinking this will be over very soon and then I can leave with no guilt. Works for me...

As soon as Kelly and I arrive, there stands Pete with this huge smile on his face asking me to go around the track with him. My first response was noooooo. There is no way I am getting in the car with him when I know he is going to drive too fast and scare me. After all, I remember all too well the day we were racing Jack on our way to Charlotte. That is an event I will never forget as long as I live!! My husband is a mad man behind the wheel! Speed takes over and his brain shuts down. Not a good combination in my book.

After a few more coaching's, I give in to Pete (he does have his way with me). The day is beautiful, the top is down, I buckle up and he turns and says...do you want me to go fast? I pause, trying to think of the right answer and then I say O.K. a little would be fine. Wait.... what just happened.... did I just loose my mind?? Why would I tell Pete it was OK to go fast? Too late to figure it out now, he hit the gas and off we went. Right out of the gate I have a death grip on both sides of my seat. I don't know what is wrong with me. I am grinning from ear to ear and yet I am scared to death. The exhilaration is unbelievable, yet I think I may pee my pants. I hear myself yelling.... I changed my mind.... I don't want to go fast. I repeat it over and over but the ride continues. Through my trip I experience the biggest thrill of my life, and yet I feel scared at the same time. Hmmmmm, makes no sense. All I can see is orange cones everywhere and can't figure out how Pete even knows where he is going. I wasn't sure we should have been zigging when we were zagging or vice a versa. Pete seemed to know where he is going. I have to trust, after all he is my husband and I don't think he wants to kill us.

As abruptly as the ride began the ride was over. The car stops and I get out. I'm not sure at this point what really happened. It felt forever, yet it didn't. It was the most incredible experience I had and yet I felt dumbfounded.

It was a little later when Diane decided we should take a joy ride around the track. You know, just to scope it out. After our ride, I finally figured out how the cones worked and realized that Pete and I had actually made all the correct turns. That was good news. A short while later I found myself on the track...you know...just checking it out. Kelly is with me, and I see her sitting over there with the same death grip and huge smile on her face that I had when I was riding with Pete. When we were finished we were both asking, "What was the time, what was the time"?

Something happened to both Kelly and I when we were out for that little jaunt. THE BUG BIT US!! Oh, my gosh... I never had so much fun in my life. The thrill of going fast, making sure you don't hit any of the cones, and of course, trying to get the best time you could! I was hooked!!! I had become my husband. What is wrong with me, I really needed to be home doing laundry, getting my groceries, and cleaning the house.

Oh to #%%## with it. I am having sooooo much fun! This is the coolest thing I have ever done! My laundry will wait; we won't starve if I don't get groceries today. I can sweep the floors tomorrow. Life is good!! The wind is in my hair; the sun is on my face. I learned how to do a burn out!!! I repeat... I learned how to do a burn out!!!!

After a few more hours, Kelly and I have now become Pete's pit crew, (after all we are now experts since we have been around the track quite a few times ourselves). We are both watching his time and giving advise on how he can improve on each run. It don't get any better then that!

I'm telling you all right now... mom and daughter will be back!!!! Kelly and I have now decided that we women can do anything!! We can bring home the bacon, fry it up in the pan, and never, never let you catch up with us on the track!!

Pete.... look out next year!! Momma is not going to play nice next year. You may be a little hungry when you get there and wearing dirty clothes, but we will all be there together as a family and I will be trying to whip your butt and going home with the best time!!!

Oh yeah, remember when I said I learned how to do a burn out? What a way to vent..... Yeeee Haaaawww!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Thank you Marlyn for that awesome article!!
